TERRACE GARDEN

HORTUS CONCLUSUS

This project was created between the façades and walls of the client's house. The wooden terrace opens up a magnificent view on the different parts of the court that are planted with perennials, grasses and trees. The plants seem to grow out of the wood panels of the terrace floor which underlines a connection to nature. Through the open design of the terrace, a central meeting point for the inhabitants was created. A water basin makes out a highlight of the garden. Its sounds of flowing water create a relaxing audible. All in all, this terrace offers retreat and invites to linger.

This garden mainly consists of a wooden floor, creating a light-filled terrace. It is open to the surroundings but at the same time shielded by walls creating privacy.
